Dear Senator Baker:

Congratulations on your acceptance of the President's request that you serve as his Chief of Staff. You are the right person to help him to re-establish the credible leadership role that I am sure he wishes to project to the American people. While no one can change the past, you can certainly help him to steer a steady course that merits the full confidence of our citizens during the final months of his administration. He deserves all of our support.

Some years ago when I was director of the exhibits division of the USIA, I had the pleasure of reviewing about 3,000 of your photographs and selecting a limited number for an exhibition that USIA sent to Amman, Jordan. I interviewed you and wrote a profile on you for the brochure that accompanied that exhibition. At that time, Annie Hughes was one of your aides. What happened to her? Will she join you at the White House? She was a staunch supporter of yours and a very nice person.

Good luck in your new task Senator. If I can do or say anything that would be helpful to you without violating the Hatch Act, please let me know. Warmest personal regards.

Dear Senator Baker:

It pleased me greatly that you accepted the job of helping President Reagan in his time of being set upon by the Democrats who seem to take great delight in fomenting trouble to attempt to cover up their inadequacies.

It is believed generally that your ability as an able referee of diverse feelings as was proved in your leadership in the Senate will be an "oil on troubled waters" for the President.

Your willingness to put duty above your questing the nomination by the Republican Party for 1988 certainly will not be forgotten by the people, and I admire your decision.

In your new position, it behooves you to get all of the dissidents off of President Reagan's back and to get the much needed solutions to problems that face us.

My best wishes for your success, and my personal regards.

Yours faithfully,
