Dear Mr. Baker,

Here's a democrat telling a republican to run for president. I would vote for any man who would put the needs of the country before his own. If Mr. Bush can be an official and campaign for president, why can't you? I'm glad Mr. Saxelt refused the job; you know a man when the chips are down.

Thank you for restoring some of my pride in being an American.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Baker,

We hope you will find moments of time from your need and busy appointment to read what we feel sure will be hundreds of congratulatory letters.

Although we are Independents, my husband and I are deeply concerned with what has happened to our Nation.

In the mass of reports in print, on radio, on TV, creating a confusing and very disturbing picture of our governmental leaders in action and in inaction, your appointment is like a ray of warm Spring sunshine.

When you become involved in necessary reporting, we will know with certainty that you are speaking truth. We feel sure the President will benefit greatly from his association with you in this difficult time.

We are sorry that campaign for President '88 will not include you. But we feel very certain that what you will be doing in the next twenty-two months will be as important as though you were filling that office now.

How good it is to know that you are there, where a good man needs to be!

Dear Howard:

Congratulations! You are the perfect person for this situation. I am so happy for the country, the President and for you that I am showing everyone the picture I had taken with you at your RNC suite when you were a candidate.

We are still struggling along, trying to keep America's traveling carnivals on the road. The Reagan years have been good years for us, with the sole exception being the outrageous increase in the cost of insurance. It has decimated the ranks somewhat. It's a difficult problem.

Everything will turn out right. This has to be a thrilling experience for you, your wonderful wife and family. Everybody is a photographer, you know, so be sure to offer up a little advice.

Dear Senator Baker,

Your acceptance as Chief-of-Staff to the President has done more for your personal fortune in politics than winning the Republican nomination for presidency.

In addition to winning admiration of all parties for taking on a horrendous responsibility, you will if all goes well, be a shoo-in candidate for president should you later on decide you want the job.

The Democrats who have lavished praise on you now would be hard put to take it all back.

Good luck in steering our nation back onto a honorable and efficient course.

Sir:

Congratulations on your being appointed President Ronald Reagan's Chief of Staff.

I thought you should like to know that I had campaigned, as an Independent Voter, here in New Jersey for you to win the nomination for Candidate for President of the U.S. in 1988 for the Republican Party, since July of last year. I see now by the newspapers that you no longer will be a Candidate for the Presidency.

Although I am not a Registered Republican, I only voted once in a Primary for a Republican, I should like to notify you that I will support and try to get support for the Candidate the Republican Party chooses to run for President in 1988, Whomever he may be.

Best of luck in your new Endeavor. God Bless You
