Dear Mr. Baker,

2-28-87

Congratulations on your new job, and we are lucky to have you helping President Reagan in this time of need.

Your record as a Senator is an example of the type of effective leadership we can expect from you in your new job.

Please accept my best wishes for a wonderful two years in the White House.

With all the best, I am your supporter,

Dear Mr. Baker:

Hallelujah! I hope President Reagan knows what a gem he has chosen as the new White House Chief of Staff. Memories of you go back as far as my high school years when you spoke at our graduation. (Harpeth Hall, Nashville, TN (1970)). Ever since then I have followed your achievements. One could not help but notice that Tennessee had chosen a truly remarkable man as their senator and that Washington had chosen an equally savvy attorney to serve on the Watergate Committee. You have not only earned the respect of Tennessee and Washington, D.C., but have instilled in my generation a willingness to contribute our best to ensure this country's future.

I know the next two years will not be easy ones, but you will have the support of many Tennesseans- not to mention myself. Good luck to you, your family and the Reagan administration.

Sincerely yours,

Martha L. Cortner

Dear Mr. Baker:

Congratulations!

Once again, you have distinguished yourself and Tennessee and we are proud of you!

I recall a story at a company where I used to work. I had supported you in a small way, but the owner had apparently contributed largely to your campaign and evidently had asked a favor later, or tried to, but was politely turned aside, I heard. The story we heard was you did not want to know who had contributed so you did not have to reciprocate in some way.

When I ran for the Williamson County School Board last year as the only Republican ever, I recalled that story. Although I had offers of campaign contributions, I decided to pay my own way to totally avoid potential conflicts.

Your integrity is a great example to all, but most appreciated by your fellow Tennesseans.

Sincerely yours,

Tom Andrews

Dear Mr. Baker:

God bless you. Words cannot explain how grateful I am that you have become President Reagan's new chief of staff.

You are truly a public servant. By giving up your run for the presidency to instead serve the President, you have showed yourself to be a model American citizen. I'm sure you will not be sorry for taking the appointment.

I know the Reagan Administration will again be on the road to great things again with the backing of all the American people now that you have come aboard as White House chief of staff.

Sir:

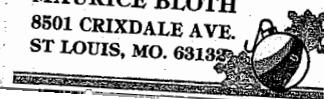

Your father-in-law is up there smiling on you
- and all of us as well!

Although my thoughts are in favor of the "opposite side" you and he favor, in all fairness to you - and his memory - you are about to do a job no one in our history has ever been called on to rescue for the benefit of our nation.

I know you have a tremendous task to set our nation straight and it is time political feelings were put on the back burner or - better still - forgotten.

Our nation comes first; let us make certain this condition, rights itself! You are the only one that can do it! Best wishes for the recovery that will follow without any doubt - what so ever!

Dear Sir:

Congratulations upon being offered and accepting the office of Chief of Staff to the President.

I know that you are eminently qualified by years of experience and temperament for this important office at this time or any other time.

I have admired you for many years as a Senator, in other forms of public service, and also for your relationship with our own great Senator Dirksen of Illinois.

I believe you will be a strong right arm for the President in these trying times and that you will have the courage of your convictions.

One of the most beautiful sights I <sup>have</sup> ever seen was a field of crimson clover in your home state.

If, in the future, you decide to run for President, you will have my vote and those of hundreds of ~~thousands of others~~ of others.

With Best Wishes for your Success,
