Dear Joe:

Thank you for your letter on behalf of Jennie Szeto who was a finalist for a White House Fellowship. As you are aware, the selection process has been completed and the White House Fellows for 1987-88 were announced on June 9. Although Ms. Szeto was not designated as a Fellow, she can be very proud to have reached the final phase of the intense competition for these fellowships.

Thank you again for bringing her accomplishments and credentials to my personal attention.

Dear Mr. Fulton:

I want to thank you for your idea suggesting that President Reagan create a "Presidential Achievement Award."

Your idea certainly seems to be a fitting way to honor a great American pioneer -- Amelia Earhart. Her spirit and achievements continue to inspire Americans of all ages to soar to heights they scarcely imagined possible.

As you may know, however, the President currently honors Americans by bestowing upon them either the Presidential Medal of Freedom or the Presidential Citizens Medal.

The Medal of Freedom is awarded to persons who have made especially meritorious contributions to the security or the national interests of the United States, to world peace, or to cultural or other significant public or private endeavors. This is the highest award bestowed upon an individual by the President. Any person can make a recommendation to the President for this award. After reviewing the recommendations, the President decides who is worthy of this recognition.

Similarly, the President awards the Presidential Citizens Medal to citizens of the United States who have performed exemplary deeds of service for the country or their fellow citizens. As with the Medal of Freedom, anyone can make a recommendation to the President for this award. Both of these awards can be presented posthumously.

With the availability of these two very prestigious awards, the President has ample means, I believe, to recognize both living and deceased Americans who have contributed to the national interest in an outstanding way.

I note that Amelia Earhart has not been posthumously awarded either of these medals. If you would like to nominate her for either award, I suggest you write the Honorable Frederick J. Ryan, Jr., Assistant to the President, The White House, Washington, D.C. 20500, advising him of your recommendation.

Thank you again for taking time to share your idea with us.

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.

Dear Don:

Thank you for your message recommending former Senator Harrison Schmitt to serve as a member of the National Commission on AIDS. I have had several talks with Jack, and I am very aware of his interest in this subject.

I continue to value your wise counsel and look forward to seeing you again soon.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Hendrickson:

Thank you for your letters of April 13 and May 14. I apologize for the delay in responding.

The Executive Branch does not, to my knowledge, retain a benefits and compensation consultant nor are there plans to do so. Executive agencies may contract for such services consistent with legislative mandates. Such contracts would be awarded on a competitive basis in accord with the Federal Acquisition Regulation. Procurement actions would appear in the Department of Commerce publication Commerce Business Daily. You may wish to contact specific Federal agencies involved in employee benefits and compensation programs and request placement on their Bidder's Mailing List.

I trust you will find this information useful. Thank you for your interest in working with the Federal government in this area.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.

Dear Mr. Wiley:

Thank you for your kind words of encouragement and support. It is indeed an honor for me to serve this President.

I agree with you about the efforts and tremendous effectiveness of Paul Volcker during this time of economic recovery and expansion. However, as you are aware, President Reagan has nominated Dr. Alan Greenspan as Chairman of the Federal Reserve following Mr. Volcker's decision not to accept a third term. Mr. Volcker has also indicated his strong support for Dr. Greenspan's nomination.

I appreciated hearing from you and having the benefit of your views. Please accept my warm best wishes.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Singer:

Thank you for your letter requesting a letter of recommendation for Avron Fogelman. I have been impressed with Mr. Fogelman for a long time now. He has built for himself a reputation as a man of accomplishment and of concern for his fellowman.

Avron has been a successful businessman in Memphis for many years. He has distinguished himself both as a volunteer and through his work to enhance educational opportunities in Western Tennessee. He has received several citizenship awards which underscore the appreciation he has earned from the people of Memphis.

Avron Fogelman's record speaks for itself, and I am pleased to recommend him as a worthy recipient of this year's Horatio Alger award.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Moore:

Thank you for your letters written on behalf of your son Greg and his efforts to enter the Naval Academy. I did not get a chance to read your letter while I was at home.

Greg seems to be an outstanding young man, and for that reason I will see to it that his credentials are given every consideration by the appropriate officials.

I send my best wishes for your success in this matter and extend my greetings to the entire Moore family in South Carolina.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Beall:

Thank you for your letter of May 14, 1987 expressing concern over efforts to increase the minimum wage.

This Administration agrees with you and opposes an increase in the minimum wage because it would result in a substantial loss of job opportunities particularly for entry-level people. As you pointed out in your letter, employment opportunities would be most sharply reduced for teenagers and for those with few job skills.

We particularly appreciate your analysis of the relation of tip income to the minimum wage. I have taken the liberty of forwarding your letter to the Secretary of Labor for his use as he leads the Administration's fight against the pending legislation.

The unemployment rate is at its lowest point in seven years due in part to the tremendous surge of job creation during this economic expansion. More than 14 million jobs have been created since 1982. At the same time, youth unemployment remains stubbornly high at 17.7 percent -- the rate for minority youth is twice as high. I believe that we would be making a serious mistake if we closed off labor market opportunities for America's young men and women. Setting up barriers to the acquisition of work experience, which -- as you note -- would occur in the restaurant industry if the minimum wage were increased, will not help our young people.

We appreciate receiving your views on this matter.

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.

Dear Bob:

Thank you for your resume and for volunteering to participate in the National Commission on AIDS.

Your interest is deeply appreciated. To date there has been no final decision about the membership of the commission; nevertheless, I'm bringing your correspondence to the attention of the Office of Presidential Personnel. I'll make sure your request receives every consideration in deliberations about this important commission.

Warm regards.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Young:

Thank you for your letter of April 29. The Nation's tax laws have important direct and indirect effects on all of us, and I appreciate hearing your views.

I have passed on your idea for a Labor Equivalency Tax to Chairman Sprinkel of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. He informs me that income earned by machines (capital) is, in fact, subject to the income tax. The corporate income tax and personal income taxes on interest, dividends, and capital gains are all taxes on capital income. Table 2-6 of this year's Economic Report of the President shows that the overall average marginal tax rate on capital income is now virtually the same as the overall average marginal tax rate on labor income. For this reason, and I hope you'll agree, a Labor Equivalency Tax is unnecessary.

I enclose a copy of this year's Economic Report of the President for your reference. Please don't hesitate to write again if you have any further questions or comments.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.

Dear Mr. Krupp:

Thank you for your recent letter.

Although I appreciate your interest in writing, the demands of my schedule will not permit a meeting at this time. However, I will be happy to assist in arranging a meeting with Mari Maseng, Bill Graham, and/or Nancy Risque. Important members of the Domestic Policy Council could also be included if you wish.

Again, thank you for writing. You have my best wishes.
