Dear Buck:

Thanks for your letter of January 28 and the tape of Mel Dodge's interview with WBNS-TV. He certainly made the top of the news in Columbus, and we appreciated his words of support.

As you are aware, despite our best efforts, the House of Representatives failed by a narrow margin to support the President's request for additional aid to the Nicaraguan Resistance. We will continue, however, to work with Congress and with the Central American leaders to bring freedom and democracy to the people of Nicaragua.

Thanks also for your offer of assistance. I'll certainly take you up on it. I have forwarded a copy of your letter to Cristena L. Bach, who works with mayors in our Office of Intergovernmental Affairs, and have asked her to stay in touch with you.

Dear Mr. Hill:

Thank you for your letter of January 14 concerning the State of the Union address. As I am sure you noticed, the President said that "we're strong, prosperous, at peace and we are free. This is the state of our Union." This theme is similar to the one you suggested. I am enclosing a copy of the full text of the address and its accompanying documents for your information.

Your letter also proposed removing or reducing the current exemption of certain Social Security payments from income tax. It would be difficult for the President or the Congressional leadership to endorse such a proposal at this time. Last October the President referred to the then forthcoming budget summit and said, "I'm putting everything on the table with the exception of Social Security, with no other preconditions." The summit agreement he subsequently reached with the joint Congressional leadership clearly endorsed this position.

Your concerns about funding for the homeless and elderly were specifically addressed in the budget agreement, which stated that "essential programs serving the poor, including the elderly, should be a priority." In Fiscal Year 1987, $528 million was allocated to the homeless and another $31 billion of Federal assistance to low-income families came from block grants and other programs. The budget agreement ensures that aid to these groups will continue.

I appreciate your thoughts and support.
